

Said
In Cypress

That one Cypress mother gained a charming new daughter when her son married last Sunday. But she will probably miss out on a lovely custom he has followed since before the war. A profusion of roses, her favorite flower, always reached her no matter where he was stationed in the navy at the time. On his own wedding day, which is also the anniversary of his parents' wedding, she received the usual basket of roses.

That the better the day—the more washing you know what morning, and the machine went out of kilter. About that time the Vic Konigs came over, and since it was such a nice day a picnic was decided upon. Their destination was Griffith park, but somewhere along on Manchester the Junkers' car broke down, and they had to be towed back home. So they had the picnic in the backyard.

That the "better half" of one of the many couples in Cypress who call this their home, but work in other cities around us, made the remark the other day that she felt she and her husband should belong to the chamber of commerce. Her thinking had been stimulated as she read of the many important issues being presented almost weekly to people in this area. In our community we reflect the basic principles on which this country was founded—that of representation and the right to think freely. More of the population hereabouts should consider attendance at chamber meetings as announcements and invitation are extended through these columns.

CAR CRASH RESULTS
IN NEW AUTOMOBILE

Because their car was damaged considerably last week as Leo Smith was turning into the driveway of their home on Lincoln avenue and another machine struck his, a new Ford has been purchased.

Smith suffered from a wrenching neck and shock. Driver of the other car was Charles Clark. He was unhurt in the accident.

OUT-OF-TOWN FRIENDS
SURPRISE MRS. PURDY

Mrs. T. J. Purdy's birthday progressed along the lines of any other day until, early in the evening, friends from Long Beach arrived at her home, 5561 Saint Ann, bringing with them a lovely birthday cake, refreshments and a shower of beautiful gifts.

Almost as though timed for the occasion, Mrs. Purdy received a congratulatory wire from her mother, who lives in Connecticut.

Guests were Mmes. Mabel Davis, Dede Moudy, Miss May Russell, Mr. and Mrs. John Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. Wier Strouse, Mr. and Mrs. James Smith and the Purdy family.

MISSIONARY COUNCIL
MEETS WEDNESDAY

Mrs. J. E. Stogdill entertained members and friends of the missionary council at the Assembly of God church at her home Wednesday. Beginning with a pot luck at noon, work was finished on a lovely quilt, which was presented to the pastor's wife, Mrs. Clarence Elgenhuis. She was duly surprised and pleased, not being aware that the object of long hours of labor was to become hers.

Present also as guests were Mrs. Elgenhuis' sister, Mrs. Helen Ransom, of Paramount, Mmes. Bonnie Chambers, Earl Sartwell, Sarah Huckabee and her daughter-in-law.

MOBILE BLOOD UNIT
IN ANAHEIM NOV. 22

Because Cypress residents are in the Anaheim area served by the American Red Cross, and are eligible to receive donations of blood when needed, they are reminded that they may also donate to this worthy cause.

The mobile blood unit will be at Ebell clubhouse in Anaheim from 4 to 7 o'clock in the evening on Tuesday, November 22. Although it is preferred that appointments be made in advance, it is not absolutely necessary.

Anyone wishing further information may call Anaheim 2065.

MOTOR TO COVINA
AND MEET RELATIVES

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ross motored to Covina Sunday with their son-in-law and daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Rogers, of 5542 Danny avenue. They were guests in the home of Mrs. Ross' sister and her niece's families, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Cokeley and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hall and son.

Upon arriving they were happily surprised to be greeted by another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ainsworth, of Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The day was particularly significant since it marked the birthday of the three sisters' mother, who lives in Whitten, Iowa.

MANAGER EXPLAINS PHONE RATES - CYPRESS EXCHANGE

Representing the telephone company, R. J. Rossberg came to his organization's defense this week in answer to questions posed in an open letter to the company which appeared in the last issue of the Enterprise.

The manager prefaced his remarks with an explanation to the effect that the figures quoted were somewhat in error as they applied to the Cypress area. Within the Anaheim exchange base rate area, he stated, an individual line costs the customer $6.50 per month. Cypress adds a very large mileage charge in the neighborhood of $12 to $12.50 per month, he explained. The total amounts to $18 or $19 plus tax. A two-party line is obtained at a slightly lower rate.

Free calls now within the area known as the Anaheim exchange cover 6762 telephones. A ten-party residence service, more common here, costs $3.25, while a ten-party business phone costs the user $4.50.

There is a mileage charge on one and two party business lines and one, two and four-party residence phones. All ten-party line service is free of mileage rate.

Extended Service. If and when extended service is adopted Rossberg stated that it would have to be provided on a non-optional basis. For reasons of savings in operation, the full economies of extended service are not available when the customer is given the option of taking local service or extended service.

If extended service goes thru, it is proposed to separate Cypress from Anaheim and establish a separate exchange. Rate for individual lines as they now stand will be $12.50 compared with $6.50, but there will be available without toll charge 153,995 phones compared to 6762.

Ten party residence service, which $3.25 is charged today, would have to be raised to $3.75 to include free calls to the 153,995 phones in the added exchanges, as noted above. Suburban business phones would be raised from $4.50 to $5.50 per month.

Chamber to Hear Plan. Because the telephone company anticipates many questions regarding its report to the public utilities commission covering a possible outline to provide extended service in Orange county, it has arranged for representatives to meet with interested groups and individuals to explain its plan.

A tentative date to appear before the Cypress chamber of commerce has been set for November 23. The public is invited to attend the meeting when it is held.

Mrs. L. Arbiso Given Surprise Shower Monday

Mrs. Lawrence Arbiso, 8891 Watson street, and baby son, Mark James, were guests at a shower given in their honor Monday afternoon by her sister, Mrs. Price Selbert, 5272 De Long street.

In the habit of visiting back and forth, Mrs. Arbiso was completely unaware of the surprise which awaited her when she arrived at her sister's home.

Guests derived much amusement from a novel prize-giving stunt contrived by the hostess. In the absence of a planned game guesses were made as to how many pieces of candy were contained in a dish. The winner of the contest was Mrs. Helen Wilson.

Following the opening of the many lovely gifts for the three-week old baby, refreshments were served from a table which boasted a miniature bassinet fashioned from pink and blue crepe paper. Two cakes in the chosen colors were served with orange punch. Mrs. Selbert was assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. E. G. Bouchard, Jr.

Sharing in the festivities in addition to those mentioned were Mmes. Berdona Rynsbarger, Jessie Andersen, Charles L. Barber, Elsie Schipper, Estalyn Bouchard, Maxine Ridgeway, Edith McMahan and the Misses Pat Martin and Beth Kroesen.

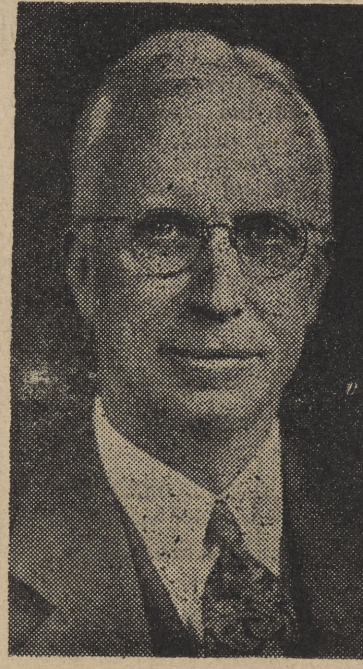

Mrs. Will Miller sent a gift but was unable to be present.

Mrs. Harry St. Clair, of Vonnie Lane, has been receiving treatment at the navy hospital in Long Beach for two abscesses which formed in her ear. Her husband, who serves aboard the U.S.S. Hector, arrived home on Tuesday.

Co. Publishers Hear J. Phillips At Knott's Mon.

Speaking before the Orange county unit of the California Newspaper Publisher's association at Knott's berry place Monday evening, Congressman John Phillips reported informally on his and Mrs. Phillips trip to Europe this summer. He also explained happenings of the past year in Washington at a round table discussion.

The congressman declared that congressional committee trips of inspection abroad are not junkets but really mean savings to American taxpayers because they leave congress better informed on what is going on in other countries, and so better able to judge appropriations asked by government departments for foreign spending.

His own trip to Europe with the committee on U.S. cemeteries and battle monuments was productive of great savings in the budgets for those establishments, he said.

Italy, said Phillips, received less aid from the U.S. and is making the greatest progress in recovery. France hasn't quite got around to getting back to work. Britain is confident that it is going into bankruptcy, but is not yet ready to scrap the Labor government, which will win just one more election, he predicted.

But social medicine will never be discarded in England, said Phillips. "They'll not shoot Santa Claus," he said.

PROPERTY OWNERS MAY BUY HEATERS IN LOS ALAMITOS

A canvass of persons who wish new heating systems installed will be conducted by the Los Alamitos Property owner's association, according to President Ronald Crane.

At his request, Bert H. Ashton, heating company official, quoted prices and styles of heaters suitable for the homes. Crane said that if a number of persons want new heaters, the association could purchase them at a cheaper rate than individually.

ROBS LIQUOR STORE IN HAWAIIAN GARDENS

A lone bandit held up Pearl L. Pinching, liquor store clerk at 12213 Carson avenue at 10:52 Monday evening. Approximately $160 in cash and currency was stolen.

She told officers the bandit walked in as she was placing stock on the shelf and asked, "Is Mike here?" Before she could turn around he added, "This is a holdup" and simulated a gun in his right coat pocket.

The clerk said the robber was very calm and appeared "experienced at his work."

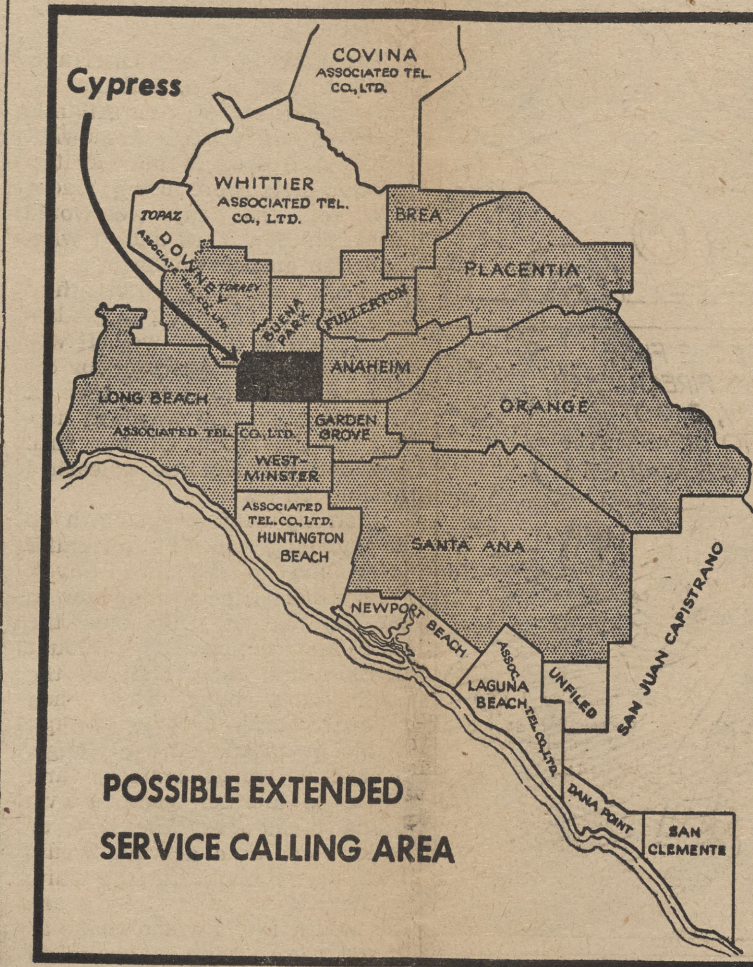

Store owner is Michael J. Spencer, 1955 Molino avenue, Signal Hill.

BAKE SALE SATURDAY BY BUSY BEES CLUB

Home-made candies, cakes, pies, cookies and baked beans and potato salad will be available for purchase Saturday morning, November 19.

Sponsored by the newly formed organization which calls itself the Busy Bees it is planned to have the sale in front of Henry's drug store beginning at nine a.m.

The local group will eventually be a chapter of the Rebekah lodge.

THE POSSIBLE EXTENDED SERVICE CALLING AREA for the possible Cypress rate area of the Anaheim exchange, is outlined by the shaded area on the above map. Cypress would be able to call the Torrey district area of the Downey exchange, and the Long Beach exchange toll free.

Community Club Names Committee For Xmas Party

One of the highlights on the year's calendar of events, plans were made for the annual Christmas party of the Cypress Women's community club at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon.

To be held in the fire hall, members and their families will share in a turkey dinner, complete with fixins. Mrs. Roy Miller, Mrs. E. V. Corby and Mrs. Ira Smith will have charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Betty Dyer, who will move with her family to Midland, Texas, next week, received a going-away present from club members. Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mabelle Dyer, was the fortunate winner of the mystery prize.

Two new members were voted into the organization. They are Mrs. Howard Decker and Mrs. Fred Walley.

The lovely dessert luncheon, served by the hostess, Mrs. A. M. Collins at the beginning of the afternoon followed the seasonal Thanksgiving theme. She was assisted by Mrs. Len White and Mrs. C. E. Swain.

Baptists Present Helpful Movie Of Bible Study

The Rev. George M. King, missionary for the Los Angeles association of the Southern Baptists will be present in the evening service on Sunday evening in the local church.

All denominations, regardless of creed, will find inspiration in the study of the Bible as presented by Mr. King, according to the pastor of the church here, Rev. W. V. Buckner.

Prior to his message, the missionary will show a sound moving picture in the Bible, which is educational and instructive. It shows the history of the good book from the time it was first printed, progressing to events of current interest.

Site of Death Valley Centennial Pageant is studied by officials. These members of California State Centennials Commission and Death Valley 49ers decide where grandstand and staging area will be located in Desolation Canyon near Furnace Creek. Pageant is to be given December 3, at 2 p.m.

Rising Wind Spreads Blaze At Eien Home

C. E. Eien chose his day off from work last Monday to burn weeds to clear his considerable property at Holder road. Assisted by Mrs. Eien, the work was progressing satisfactorily, when a slight breeze arose, causing the fire to burn out of control.

When called to the scene, Cypress volunteer firemen quickly extinguished the blaze. Flames spread to several empty rabbit hutches at the Gilbert King residence next door at 9231 Holder road, as well as threatening a small shed which housed tools valued at $70. Mrs. King stated that her husband had recently lost a set of tools from the back compartment of his car, and had been adding to the new set, locking them in the small shed for safe-keeping.

Considerable work is being done on the two-story residence owned by Mr. and Mrs. Eien, when completed, the remodeled house will contain three bedrooms instead of one.

Sandvig - Irvin Exchange Vows In Church Rites

Saint Boniface church in Anaheim was the setting Sunday afternoon for the wedding ceremony when Miss Camille Sandvig, and William D. Irvin exchanged marriage vows in a double ring service. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sandvig, of Seattle, Wash., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Irvin, 8411 Gay street.

Given in marriage by close friend of the family, Donald Van Buskirk, the bride was gownned in white slipper satin styled with a yoke and peplum of chantilly lace, with a high rolled collar. The full skirt ended in a short train, and the finger-tip veil was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls. White lace mitts and a strand of pearls, the gift of the groom, completed her attire. Carried on a white prayer book were her flowers of white roses.

Miss Frances Atcompora was maid of honor attired in a gown of white lace over pink satin. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations. Miss Marie Hall and Mrs. Margie Miller wore gowns of blue and pink organza respectively and carried yellow carnations. All wore harmonizing hair bandeaus.

Millie Irvin, sister of the bridegroom, and Patty Hull were flower girls, dressed alike in hoop skirted aqua dresses complete with picture hats and carrying pink carnations. Olin Bearden, of Snyder, Texas was best man. Hostesses at the reception which followed in the VFW hall in Cypress were Mrs. M. R. Bouse and daughter, Dorise. The guest book was in the charge of Mrs. Van Buskirk.

The bride was graduated from Wahpeton high school in Wahpeton, North Dakota, and the groom from Central high school in Chattanooga, Tenn.

After a honeymoon to an undisclosed destination, the couple will be at home in their trailer house in San Diego. Irvin returns to duty in the navy on Nov. 22. He is a cook aboard the submarine, Char.

Mrs. Jeff Davis, 9181 south Walker st., returned home from St. Joseph's hospital Sunday morning. She underwent major surgery, but is progressing very satisfactorily.

THANKSGIVING

The real spirit of Thanksgiving is not limited to any one day of the year. It lives throughout time and finds expression in the hearts of those who have learned to appreciate the good things in life.

Unfortunately, too many of us take our benefits for granted. We often complain in the midst of plenty. We are too prone to minimize our advantages and exaggerate our limitations.

Few people have a bed of roses on this planet. The bumps we encounter are at times pretty jarring. But the important thing is not to let the unpleasant experiences blind our eyes to the blessings ever at hand.

We Americans enjoy a good standard of living. We eat well, are reasonably well housed, have adequate clothing and at least some of the mechanical devices such as washing machines and cars that make for an easier and more pleasant existence.

Are we thankful for these things?

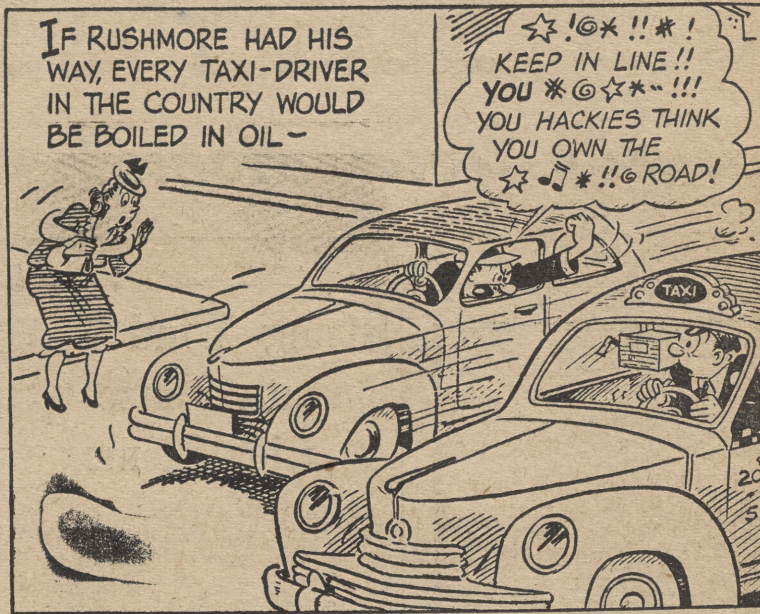

Are we thankful, too, for the political and religious freedom which is ours, for the opportunities in education, in business and in virtually every line of endeavor? Are we grateful for the guidance and protection this nation has had through two great wars?

If we as individuals will cultivate the habit of thanksgiving every day we shall be amazed at our boundless blessings and we shall give to our annual Thanksgiving holiday a meaning far beyond that of mere routine ceremony.

The Human Race

IF RUSHMORE HAD HIS WAY, EVERY TAXI-DRIVER IN THE COUNTRY WOULD BE BOILED IN OIL.

EXCEPT THE ONES HE RIDES WITH!

I RISE TO REMARK

by John Phillips

Continuing the general impressions of the summer, I am inclined to come back to my own people and say, "Let us look to our own national household." Our European friends, whose salvation has been so close to our eyes that we have not seemed to see the spots wearing thin in our own economic and political salvation, are eating and working and pulling out.

A general statement would be that the well-to-do, in many of the countries, are getting along fairly well, although high taxes hit that bracket, there as here. The very poor, and the workers in the least skilled groups, are better off than before the war. The middle class, the white-collar workers, feel the pinch, and in many instances actually suffer.

Prices Compared

We look in a European store window, and see prices the same or lower, than here. We see big autos and buildings or rebuilding, and all sorts of things we would recognize as evidences of prosperity, if they were here at home. We do not search out the fact that a school teacher's pay is $50 a month, with certain requirements, in expenditures, the non-professional or unskilled workers do not have to make. We do not realize that the book-keeper in the hotel, who makes out the bills, and before whom the thoughtless American travelers display great handfuls of the money of the country, commenting loudly and critically on the money's size, appearance and probably the value, is working for $50 a month, to eke out her husband's salary, because the two can hardly live, under present conditions there, without her working. This is the problem abroad, not the basic problem of food. In a way, it is increasingly the problem here.

Democracy

It is hard, under modern conditions, to maintain a representative government, such as we have had in the United States. I am convinced that it is infinitely harder to get it back, if it is once lost.

We are nearly home, as this is written. We have had a surprisingly pleasant trip. Weather good, roads excellent. Walter Pittman, please note the latter part of that remark. We had not driven all the way east or west for several years. We stopped to see our daughter in Ohio, and briefly to see the Will Rogers Memorial at Caremore, and the White Sands National Monument in New Mexico, the latter being one of our budget items.

We are getting into good, wide, dry country. I am beginning to breathe again, and to expand. Shortly we will cross the line, at Yuma, and be home in the District.

FARM TRAINING PROGRAM CLASSES BEING ARRANGED

All veterans interested in enrolling in an Institutional on the Farm Training Program are asked to call Mel Eberhard, Anaheim 3370.

Veterans should have their own farm or do agricultural work to get in the class. Those enrolled will receive subsistence similar to that of veterans going to school, according to Mel Eberhard, who is organizing the class.

Saturated Felt Blocks Dampness In Concrete Floor

When the concrete floor of a basementless house rests on the ground, a waterproof membrane of asphalt saturated felt will help keep the interior of the home dry and comfortable.

The ground should be covered first with a coarse granular fill about six inches deep. This should be topped with a thin coating made from one part portland cement, three parts screened sand and water.

To apply the waterproof membrane, mop hot asphalt over the cement coating. Place a layer of 15-pound asphalt saturated roofing felt over the hot asphalt. Then mop with hot asphalt again, place a second layer of felt and apply a final hot asphalt coating on top.

The concrete floor slab goes over the protective asphalt felt. Care must be taken to keep the edges of the slab from touching the foundation walls. It is advisable to use fiber or cork board insulation between the slab and the foundation to block the passage of cold from the ground to the house floor.

Travelogue

by James C. Duncan

Leaving Marseilles at 10:00 p.m., we sailed straight for the Straits of Gibraltar.

The next evening at sunset, we passed the "Rock" as it is called. It was silhouetted against a shell pink sky. Of course, there were the usual remarks about not being able to see the sign of the Prudential Insurance Company on it.

The water in the Mediterranean Sea was calm, but as we cleared the straits, the Atlantic was its usual self. Somewhat rough compared to the Mediterranean. Bets were being placed now on what day we would arrive in New York and at what time the anchor would drop.

As we went along on our third and fourth days out, the Atlantic treated us pretty well. It was rather calm and peaceful for the Atlantic, but to hope that it would remain that way was hoping for too much. On our fifth day out, the Atlantic unleashed its fury on us.

A strong wind swept down on us bringing with it torrential rains and mountainous waves. Heavy black clouds hung low in the sky and the wind blew the rain like bullets. The Mount Davis would raise high on the back of a huge wave then suddenly drop into a trough with a stomach turning plunge, then she would shudder and shake as another giant wave would break over the bow or deck. Each time a wave would crash over the bow sending white feathery spray high into the air, the Mount Davis would shake as if she were trying to shake all the water off her. Then she would raise herself above the next towering wave.

Below deck, we were having a time trying to feed the crew. Dishes and glasses refused to stay on the tables despite our putting wet table cloths on the tables. Dishes crashed out of their racks and the cooks had to place bars across the galley range to keep pots and kettles full of soup and vegetables from sliding off and crashing into the deck.

In the fo'c's (rooms) the decks had to be mopped every five minutes as water leaked from the portholes which were tightly battened down. Only steel railings around our bunks kept us from being thrown to the deck.

On a C-4 freighter, there is a considerable amount of open deck between the bridge and officer's quarters and the aft end of the ship where the mess halls and crew quarters are. Catwalks were hastily made and secured to the deck so the officers and passengers could get back and forth to eat, but the catwalks were soon swept over board by the mountainous waves which continued to sweep over the decks. Ropes were next stretched the length of the deck and the officers used these to scurry as fast as they could on the heaving deck back and forth. We had picked up six passengers in Marseilles and were taking them to New York during the storm, they never expected to see another day let alone New York. There was some seasickness among the crew and passengers.

Trying to walk down the passageways was also quite an experience during the storm. You'd be walking along level, then suddenly you'd be pulling up hill then running down hill then you'd be knocked up against the bulkhead as the ship pitched and rolled.

The storm lasted three days and three nights then everything smoothed out and we proceeded on at our regular speed. The only serious damage was to the bow. All the railing was stripped away and the bit plates, which are made out of three inch steel, were badly cracked. On the tenth day out of Gibraltar, we sighted New York.

LOCAL HOME LOOTED OF GROCERIES

A carton of cigarettes and a sack of groceries was the unusual loot taken from the home of Mrs. Phyllis Jean Derringer of 7721 Craig street, Buena Park, last week, sheriff's deputies reported. She lost the items, worth $6.08, during a three-hour absence from her home during the evening after she had been shopping.

Stout-hearted men are sentimental up to a point. The point is that they won't allow sentiment to interfere with buying—they are cautious in choosing the engagement diamond to be sure of quality and value. News Hounds In Local Grade School Visit City Newspaper Office Plant

Mrs. Arnold's 6th Students of Mrs. Arnold's sixth grade spent a very interesting day at the Long Beach Press-Telegram last Tuesday, November 15. Mr. Selbert, bus driver, took the children to Long Beach.

Mrs. Leverich, one of the room mothers went along on the trip. About 9:50 Mr. Larsen, the guide, met the class in the main office. He took the students up to the third floor where they saw reporters, editors and stenographers in the city news room. Edsel Newton, waterfront reporter, explained the procedure of gathering and reporting news. He explained the duties of the members of the staff.

Next the boys and girls saw the teletype room where they watched the Associated and United Press news come through.

After seeing the teletype room the group went into the linotype room, where Mr. Larsen explained the operation of the linotype machine. From the composing room, the students were rushed downstairs to the press room where they saw the running of the presses. Mr. Larsen explained that this was the most modern up-to-date press on the coast. He told the students that this new high speed web press cost about $400,000 and could print over 52,000 copies per hour.

The class saw the storage room and saw matrices and plates made. They learned many interesting facts about the modern newspaper, and are grateful to the Press-Telegram and Mr. Larsen.

Girls Make Trip To Nylon Factory

Ivey Giles, 6 The sixth grade Girl Scouts of troop 14 went to Santa Ana November eighth to the Charles W. Bowers Museum but the museum was closed so the Scouts went to the wholesale nylon hosiery, and watched them make nylon stockings.

Then they went to the Girl Scout house at Hillcrest Park. The G. S. little house is a place where the girls can camp and cook outdoors. The troop 14 Scouts plan to spend an overnight trip up there. The scouts had a wonderful time and are looking forward to the overnight trip.

The seventh grade scouts of troop 12 had an overnight trip up there November 4 and 5. They had a taffy pull and a lot of fun. The trip was very successful and the girls came home very happy and full of pep.

Coffee and Pumpkin Blend in This Holiday Dessert

WHEN everyone has had his fill of roast turkey, when the dressing and cranberry sauce and the rest of the fixins have each played their role at Thanksgiving Dinner, clear the board for pumpkin pie and coffee! And here is a fine suggestion for a pumpkin pie that is light as thistledown, toothsome enough to hold its own on the year's all-star menu.

The flavors of pumpkin and coffee have a real affinity for each other, and, combined with spices, they form a perfect blend in this delicate, fluffy pie. Somehow, coffee-pumpkin chiffon pie is the perfect light dessert for an extra-filling dinner.

Of course, you'll need plenty of fresh, fragrant coffee to top off the feast. This is the day to use your best coffee-pot, your prettiest cups. Then, when the pie plates are

Patching Old Roof Called Poor Idea

When an old roof begins to leak, it wears out uniformly and patching is seldom an effective means of repair, according to the National Bureau of Standards. In fact, new leaks might be started when workmen climb on the weak roofing.

In most cases, the most practical way to make permanent roof repairs is to replace the roofing material or re-cover it with asphalt shingles. This kind of roofing also adds fire-resistance, a quality considered essential by the National Fire Protection Association. Roofs which will catch fire from chimney sparks or airborne fire brands are the fourth-ranking fire hazard according to property damage and the fifth hazard according to number of fires, the NFPA says. In hundreds of cities and towns, building codes now prohibit the use of flammable shingles.

Uncle Sam Says

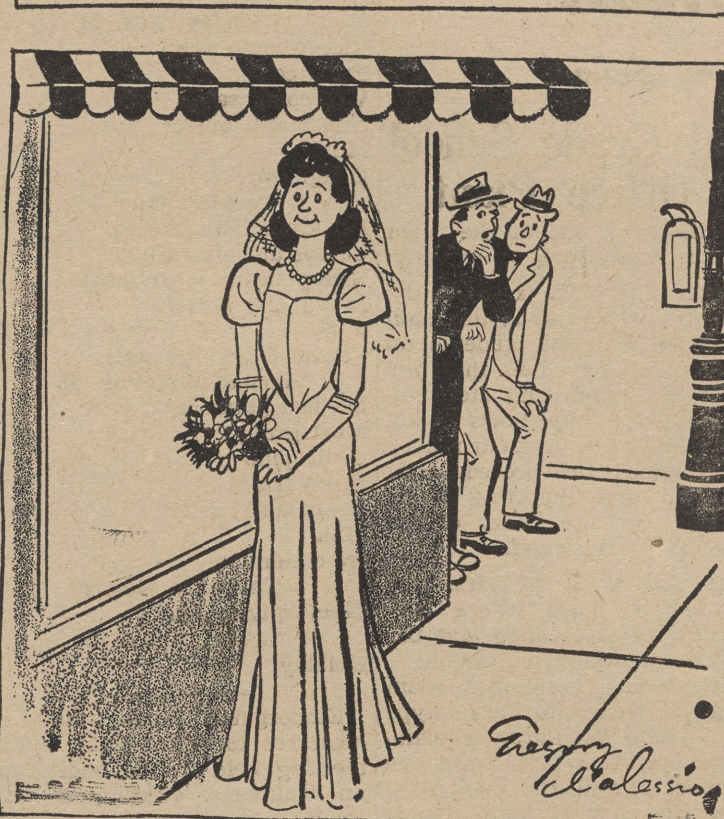

Volunteers are mighty important to the U. S. Savings Bonds Program. During the fall when farmers are bringing in their harvest, an outstanding group of U. S. Savings Bonds volunteers will be traveling the country telling people about Bonds.

These volunteers are the cartoonists who draw your favorite comic strips and they will put on a show in connection with a Treasury Department sponsored art exhibit, "20,000 Years of Comics," in several American cities. They are freely giving of their time and effort to continue telling their readers that U. S. Savings Bonds are the safest and best investment in the world.

Homes in U.S. Found Better By British

After six weeks of studying home building in the United States, 17 leading British architects and contractors decided that American houses are superior to those in Great Britain principally because of central heating and wood framed sidewalls, which are so common in America that most homeowners take them for granted.

Robert Owen Lloyd, British builder and leader of the group, said, "We were intrigued with the design and general construction of American homes. Most of the homes we saw have framed walls and basements. This is almost unknown in Britain. We were also glad to see that every home is provided with its own heating plant. This we consider essential for maximum comfort."

Solid brick sidewalls, without framing, are used in the vast majority of British homes, Mr. Lloyd said. He explained that "framing adds to rapid construction and offers easy fixing for interior finishes and insulation."

Homes in England usually are heated by a system of open fireplaces which, the British builder said, "is wasteful of fuel and creates extra work for the housewife." He added that he would like to see central heating plants installed in every British home.

Referring to framed walls and heating plants, Mr. Lloyd emphasized that "these two important items, together with the asphalt shingle roof covering, will excite our minds for many days." He explained that most roofs in England are slate or tile and said he was impressed with the long life and ease of application of asphalt shingles and with the variety of solid and blended colors available.

He also pointed out that British builders do not provide anything like the equipment we found in American homes, primarily because some of this equipment is too expensive in Britain.

Members of the British building team were surprised to find that all external doors and windows, even in low-cost homes, are fitted with weatherstripping which reduces heat loss, Mr. Lloyd said.

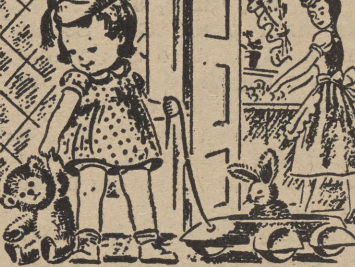

The British group came to the United States under sponsorship of the Economic Cooperation Administration and the Anglo-American Council.

Your Child

A WEEKLY COLUMN
conducted by Claud C. Ruch
Educational Director, Childcraft
Advisory Service in Chicago

In a recent column, we discussed the child who has a temper tantrum because he has been bossed and ordered around until he starts to scream and kick and cry, out of sheer exasperation.

Such outbursts of intense anger are common among very young children, who are usually extremely sensitive to their environment.

But, when your youngster has a sudden fit of temper, that doesn't necessarily mean that you may innocently have been the cause of it. Nor does it necessarily mean that he is "bad" or "spoiled."

It may simply mean that he doesn't feel well, or is overtired or undernourished. Or it may mean that he is too cold or too warm, or that his clothing is too tight. Children up to four years of age are unable to stand small discomforts that the older child takes in his stride. Loud sounds, including noises of heavy traffic, angry voices, the excitement of being in crowded places or among strange persons, may unnerve them to the point where they become hysterical.

Very small children frequently become violently angry out of a sense of frustration. Their ability to work their way out of the simplest difficulty is so limited that almost every effort and activity produce overwhelming problems.

For example, a little two-year-old may be blissfully pulling his toy wagon along the floor when suddenly, the wheel gets caught in the rug or door jamb. After a few frantic but futile tugs, he may start to scream with indignation. If he has an understanding mother, she will show him how to untangle the wagon, wash his face with cool water, and return to her tasks as though nothing had happened.

The mother who doesn't realize the cause of a child's disturbance will further aggravate the situation by punishing or scolding him for losing his temper.

Fullerton Loses To Mt. San Antonio, 12-0

Fullerton junior college's Hornets were defeated by Mt. San Antonio, 12-0, Friday night but the game was closer than the score indicated and hopes were high that the Swarm could make a fair showing against the powerful Santa Ana eleven next Thursday in their Turkey Day clash.

The Mountaineers tallied in the third and fourth periods, the first coming when tackle Hollis Prime picked up a blocked punt and went 25 yards. The second TD came in the final two seconds when Halfback Brooks dashed for 30 yards.
